NEW TECHNOLOGY Provides Discounts From Allstate Insurance

By Christine McBride

While change is a natural part of life, some changes are more welcome than others. For example, the parents of new teenage drivers can see the positive side being more personal free-time from driving cars full of kids to various sports and activities. The scary side for parents is not knowing how safe their children are driving when on the road solo. As a father of four, Andrew McCabe with Allstate Insurance understands the mixed emotions that come along with children finding independence.

Change is inevitable at home as well as in the business world. With the significant increase in distracted driving, the auto insurance industry is now providing new technology that helps monitor driving behavior. This technology modernizes the auto insurance by providing feedback on driving behaviors, both positive and negative habits, and pass additional savings along to safe drivers. Andrew and his team work diligently to not only educate our customers about these changes but also do everything they can to provide information and resources to the general public as well. One of the greatest changes to the insurance industry is the way business is conducted and the ability for new technology to help determine pricing and discounts. “Not only are there very large discounts offered to customers that enroll in paperless billing options, but the auto insurance industry is now providing individualized feedback and rewards continued on page 7.

DEAR RESIDENTS.

With every passing year more friends and family members just naturally become ill and some sadly pass away. It always makes our entire family reflect on how quickly life can change, and that your health is truly the most important thing in life. Our feature family knows the reality of this all too well. When Allison was just six-years-old, her father was returning the rental car from their family vacation to DisneyWorld and sadly got into a deadly car accident. That shaped the rest of Allison’s childhood and also motivates her to always help those in need. So much so that she helped start up All-In Milwaukee, a new non-profit. Allison also gives all of us anyone lucky enough to know her. I hope you enjoy reading their story but more importantly, I wish you all a healthy and happy year ahead!

Happy Holidays,
Christine McBride

When Allison Auda Wagner first moved to Whitefish Bay from northern New Jersey in 1989, her then 9-year-old self would never have imagined that in her thirties she would again happily relocate her own family here. After a tragic car accident took her father’s life, Allison’s mom relocated Allison and her brother to Whitefish Bay because their extended family was located here, and a strong support system was needed. “At the time I thought we were moving to farmland, but I was pleasantly surprised to find that Whitefish Bay was a lovely suburb with lots to do,” said Allison. “I gave my mom such a hard time about moving here but ironically I wanted to move back and raise my own family in Whitefish Bay even after living in larger cities like Washington, D.C., Boston, and Chicago.”

The friends and family support system that drew Allison’s mom to move back here, ironically also helped connect Allison to her now husband, Alex Wagner, many years later.

Although Allison and Alex both attended UW-Madison for undergrad, it wasn’t until Allison was moving to Chicago in 2005 that they met. Knowing that Allison was relocating, family friend Sunny Williams gave her Alex’s number suggesting that he could show her around the Chicago area. While visiting Madison for homecoming weekend at the popular Kollege Klub bar, Allison and Alex randomly started chatting. “Within a few minutes I realized that it was the same Alex who I had been meaning to call once in Chicago,” said Allison. “I showed him that his number was already in my phone and we shared a good laugh over the craziness of the situation.” The pair were clearly meant to be because they have been together ever since that fateful first encounter.

For two years they dated while both living and working in Chicago, Alex in investment management and Allison for an education non-profit. After being married for four years and having both their children in the city of Chicago, they wanted to move back to Milwaukee to be near friends and family. “While living in Chicago we would always jokingly say that we ‘Summered in Milwaukee’ because we were up here almost every weekend with family,” said Alex. “When an opportunity came to move back we jumped at the chance to raise our family here. We were both keen to be closer to family, and enjoy the better quality of life Milwaukee offers.” Alex, who earned his master’s degree at Marquette University after they moved, now works as the director of investor relations for Continental Properties, a national commercial real estate developer.

Allison’s heart has always been in the education world. After working for the Gates Foundation in education research, Allison received her master’s degree in education continued on page 6

All-In Milwaukee has hit the ground running making their first year goal to raise a million dollars by January. That amount will guarantee 40 students a spot within their program for the next four years. By connecting with area businesses and leaders, All-In Milwaukee matches each corporate or individual donor with an ambitious student. The cost of fully sponsoring a student is $25,000, broken down to $6,250 per year for four years. They also gladly accept any donation given in the hopes that enough $20 or $100 donations will create another fully-funded scholarship. The organization mirrors a Minneapolis nonprofit that Darren Jackson, a successful CFO and CEO with ties to both cities, was a part of and thought was desperately needed in Milwaukee. More information can be found at www.allinmilwaukee.org.

When not busy promoting All-In Milwaukee, the Wagner family remains active with everything from Friday evening gatherings while the kids play to one of a kind with everything from Friday evening gatherings while the kids play to a yearly Christmas cookie exchange with neighbors who have become great friends. "What I have always said about Whitefish Bay is that when you move here, you might get a good house, but you get a great community," said Allison. "Our block is truly a one of a kind with everything from Friday evening gatherings while the kids play to a yearly Christmas cookie exchange with neighbors who have become great friends."

Mr. Andy McCabe, the executive director for the new nonprofit, thought was desperately needed in Milwaukee. More information can be found at www.allinmilwaukee.org. His end goal is to help low-income, high-performing students in the Greater Milwaukee Area graduate from college. The initial goal is to identify 40 ambitious high school seniors from low-income families and in need of both financial assistance and personal coaching. "We have labeled it the Million Dollar Mile because research shows that the life-long earning potential between a person who has their undergraduate degree compared to someone who doesn't is on average a million dollar difference," said Allison.

Since 2004 Andrew has grown his Shorewood based business to now include two additional offices. The second office was opened in 2013 in Bay View and the newest office opened this past August in West Allis. “I am proud to say that we now employ 11 full-time agents,” said Andrew. "Having our growth be centered around providing unbeatable customer service along with strong community involvement, we saw a need to expand to a third office west of the city, and West Allis was a perfect fit.”

As a resident of Whitefish Bay for over a decade, Andrew enjoys seeing clients outside of business dealings through interactions such as coaching the little league teams, walking the kids to school or visiting farmers markets. “Through all the changes over the years, our agency still remains focused on what we do best —being a trusted advisor and centering everything we do around providing service, value and trust,” said Andrew.

DIY All Natural Cold Remedies

By Kailee Capela

It’s that time of year when it seems like everyone meets fighting a cold. No matter how much you bathe yourself in hand sanitizer, some bug always seems to eventually infect you. The sniffles, cough, and aches are enough to make you feel “out of sorts” for days. Here are two natural DIY cold remedies that will hopefully make your sick days a little less miserable.

What You’ll Need:
- 4 tbsp of gelatin powder
- 2 tbsp of ginger zest
- 1 small container with lid
- 9 drops rosemary essential oil
- 9 drops eucalyptus essential oil
- 9 drops peppermint essential oil
- Silicone molds of choice

Directions:
1. In a saucepan, bring to a boil, slow melting the shea butter. While whisking (to prevent clumping)—until it dissolves.
2. Pour the mixture into your silicone molds of choice. Leave in the refrigerator until they set (about 20-30 minutes).
3. Remove the gummies from the molds and enjoy! You can store extras in a container or jar in the refrigerator.

When you’re feeling stuffy and congested, vapor rub can be a lifesaver. As those cold months start to creep up, I always make sure to keep this all-natural version on hand. This recipe is great for adults; if your youngster is under six, though, make sure to swap out the essential oils for kid-safe oils. Note: Any of these essential oils can be substituted with whatever you have on hand.

What You’ll Need:
- 1/2 cup shea butter
- 9 drops peppermint essential oil
- 9 drops eucalyptus essential oil
- 6 drops lavender or tea tree essential oil
- 1 small container with lid

Directions:
1. Fill a pot 1/3 full with water and rest a stainless steel bowl on top.
2. Add the shea butter to the bowl, while bringing the water to a boil, slowly melting the shea butter.
3. When the shea butter is completely melted, add your essential oils of choice and mix.
4. Transfer the mixture to a small container. Let it cool before placing the lid on top.
Thank you for joining us for this year’s Holiday Stroll! Many people came out to enjoy Whitefish Bay’s winter celebration and we’re honored that the annual event is a part of your holiday tradition. This special evening would not have been possible without you or our sponsors and volunteers, we are very grateful for the community’s continued support. The lighting of the Christmas Tree at Consaul Commons with the Whitefish Bay Cantorei Choir performing was pretty special again this year.

Thank you to our Grand Marshal – Patrick McCarthy, the Public Works Department Foreman. Driving the Big Dump Truck, one of a fleet of over 40 vehicles and trucks was pretty impressive. This year was a busy year for the Whitefish Bay Department of Public Works, with the whole team transitioning to a new automated refuse and recycling collection program this past fall. A big thank you to them for all they do all year long.

Thanks, also, from the merchants on Silver Spring Drive for participating in the evening’s festivities. Each of the businesses greatly appreciates your patronage throughout the year and is well poised to meet all your season’s needs. Collectively, the stores on Silver Spring Drive have something for everyone on your gift list!

Shop locally this holiday season while enjoying activities for the whole family. Exciting events are planned all month long, including reindeer visits, ice carving, trunk shows and great shopping specials from your favorite retailers.

Again, this year - We’re offering shoppers the opportunity to win 4 themed gift collections filled with items you love from your favorite local stores while supporting The Merchants of Whitefish Bay this holiday season. Love Local for the Holidays and we’re honored that the annual event is a part of your holiday tradition.

Remember to Shop/Eat/Enjoy Local for the Holidays!

Our Mission – to champion the downtown Whitefish Bay business district as an exceptional place to shop, live and conduct business – for individuals, families, and visitors visiting the community. NURSE-MANAGED CARE AT HOME

By Chelsea Scott

My town can’t be the only one with a turkey trot or ugly sweater run this time of year. Creatively named family friendly races are a great incentive to keep moving, especially during the time of year we tend to slow down. Don’t think you must be a runner to do a 5k either; people walk them all the time. And since most races are in the morning, how cool is it that you will have logged over 5,000 steps before lunch?

GO TO THE MALL

Duh! There is always someone to buy a gift for this time of year. Yes, online shopping is convenient. But shopping at brick and mortar stores does have some perks, like special buys or sales and local products. Take a few laps around the mall at the beginning and end of your trip and you will add a few thousand steps to your daily total. Bonus points if you park your car at the far end of the lot.

HOLIDAY THEMED 5K

Doing a fun activity with the family like baking holiday cookies or making a gingerbread house? Walk in place or play indoor tag and seek while your treats are in the oven (don’t leave the house while the oven is on). When you take the cookies out of the oven, take a leisurely stroll around the neighborhood while they are cooling. Not only will you get to your step goal quicker, you won’t feel as guilty about eating a cookie or candy cane.

CUT YOUR OWN TREE

If you display a decorated tree in your home during the holidays, consider a live tree that you cut down yourself. Not only is the aroma of a real tree appealing, you can have different shapes and sizes each year. Rather than buying the tree at a lot, go directly to the tree farm and cut your own. Many times, this is less expensive and—you guessed it—you’ll log at least a few hundred steps tromping around the grounds looking for the perfect tree.

Decades, Dahlias, and a Generous Donation
By Dan Tyk, RN, BS, NRP Lieutenant, EMS Manager/Community Relations/Public Information Officer

Eighty years; that’s a long time by anyone’s standards. But that is how long Whitefish Bay resident Mardell Williams has lived in the Village. Some of you may know her as the “Dahlia Lady”, or the “Flower Lady”, due to her annual contribution of Dinner Plate Dahlias to village mainstays like the Library and Village Hall. Or, maybe you’ve walked past her home on East Chateau Place near Cahill – also adorned during the Spring and Summer with those gorgeous and hard to miss blooms.

Either way, after just a few minutes of time spent with her, you can see her love of the community, and her kindness and generosity. We were fortunate to get a little of her time as she presented our staff with a generous donation in memory of her husband. We quickly presented her with a proposal for the assistance of this device.

Our hope is to complete training and initial deployment of the first device by the beginning of 2019. Additionally, we continue to pursue grants and other opportunities for procurement of two additional devices, which would allow us to equip each of our front-line paramedic units with this state-of-the-art device.

We’re grateful for the continued support of the seven communities we serve; and especially for residents like Mardell. We look forward to sharing the positive outcomes achieved with the assistance of this device.

LOOK, LISTEN, LEARN: Be Aware, Fire Can Happen Anywhere
By Lieutenant Dan Tyk, North Shore Fire/Rescue

Together, with the support of our residents, the schools across the North Shore, and the communities we serve, we have had the privilege of presenting to more than twenty schools and making contact with more than 4,000 children during these past few weeks as part of our 2018 Fire Prevention Month campaign. Schools across the North Shore welcomed us into their classrooms to spread the message of safety using the National Fire Protection Agency’s 2018 Fire Prevention Slogan: Look. Listen. Learn. Be Aware, Fire Can Happen Anywhere.

Children listened intently as our crews delivered age-appropriate fire safety messages surrounding these themes. From talking about escape planning basics and differentiating between tools (matches and lighters) and toys, to creating posters encompassing the messages and fire safety themes taught for the past several years; kids from preschool to fourth grade engaged our personnel, working to ensure safety.

But, nothing can be more important than getting that message into each and every home across our service area. Therefore, we would like to take a moment to highlight some of the important safety messages encompassed in this year’s campaign:

Looking for places that a fire could start. Take a good look around your home, identify potential fire hazards, and take action to keep you safe in your home and out of the hospital.

Listening to smoke alarms. If you stay home, you can have only minutes to escape safely once the smoke alarm sounds. Go to your outside meeting place, which should be a safe distance from the home and where everyone should know to meet.

Learning at least two ways out of every room, and making sure all doors and windows leading outside are free of clutter.

While children under age 5, and adults over 65 are the highest risk for injury or death in a fire, people of all ages are vulnerable. In fact, the risk of a nonfatal fire injury is highest for those between 20 and 49, showing that fire safety education is essential for everyone.

LOOK - Look for places that a fire could start. Take a good look around your home, identify potential fire hazards, and take action to keep you safe in your home and out of the hospital.

LISTEN - Listen to smoke alarms. If you stay home, you can have only minutes to escape safely once the smoke alarm sounds. Go to your outside meeting place, which should be a safe distance from the home and where everyone should know to meet.

LEARN - Learn at least two ways out of every room, and make sure all doors and windows leading outside are free of clutter.

Join us for our December Whitefish Bay TALKS with local author Douglas Armstrong for his new book The Color of the Sun on Wednesday, December 5 at 6:30pm. This event is cohosted by Boswell Book Company who will be on hand selling copies of Doug’s book.

About the book: The murder of a newspaper reporter during a 1967 riot pulls two of his colleagues deep into the contentious issues of race in America and into the secrets of a troubled inner city family. Did a nine-year-old boy pull the trigger? Alternately solemn and irreverent, Douglas Armstrong’s Color of The Sun looks back at an era when the civil rights movement rocked the social underpinnings of a nation, including old-boy, newspaper journalism. Gabe Harden and Scott Patterson return in the second of Armstrong’s Life on The Sun series.

About the author: Critics called Douglas Armstrong’s most recent novel Life on The Sun “authentic, frenzied, and suspenseful.” In 2010, his debut novel Even Sunflowers Cast Shadows won the Wisconsin Writer’s Award as the best in full-length fiction. Armstrong is a former reporter, editorial writer, columnist, and critic for The Milwaukee Journal. He was on the scene in the 1960s when this series of books about newsroom life in an era of love beads, teargas, and manual typewriters is set.

SIMPLE BLACK BEAN SOUP

By Jordan King

I find around the holidays that I need simple, tasty and healthy recipes; my body craves nourishing food. This soup is perfect all year round, but especially when I am feeling like I could use a detox. The ingredients are simple; there is no need for complex spices, just let all the flavors do their job. Quesadillas pair deliciously with this soup. And, an added bonus: even my children gobble this one up!

Garnish:
1 bunch cilantro, chopped, divided

32oz chicken or vegetable broth
1/2 teaspoon red pepper flakes
2 tablespoons cumin
3 tablespoons minced garlic
2 cups carrot, chopped
2 cups celery, chopped
2 tablespoons butter
1lb black beans, soaked and rehydrated

Ingredients:
even my children gobble this one up!

Prep time: 10-15 minutes,
Cook time: 30 minutes, Serves 4

Directions:
Plan ahead, rehydrate the black beans and set aside. In a large pot, heat butter over medium heat. Add onion, garlic, celery and carrots, sautéing until soft. Stir in spices. Add beans and broth; simmer until beans are soft. Puree half of the soup in a blender. Mix together and stir in half of the cilantro. Garnish as desired.

THE BENEFITS AND USES OF COCONUT OIL

By Kailee Capela

Recently, coconut oil has been all the rage. But what’s all the hype about? Is coconut oil some kind of miracle superfood? A beauty phenomenon? Some people swear by it, and I happen to be one of those people. Here are some of the proven benefits and uses of coconut oil that you can try at home!

HEALTHY COOKING
Replacing your usual oil or butter with coconut oil can benefit your diet. It burns fat more effectively, and it increases your metabolism, making it a great option for those trying to reach or maintain a healthy weight. Because of its antibacterial and anti-inflammatory properties, coconut oil also eases digestion. This helps you combat any harmful bacteria or parasites that could cause indigestion or stomach viruses.

MOISTURIZER
One of coconut oil’s most common uses is as a moisturizer. It’s safe for use on both your face and body, making it a versatile substitute for your daily moisturizer. Coconut oil can treat cases of extreme dryness and other skin conditions. Due to its extreme hydrating, antibacterial and anti-inflammatory properties, it has successfully reduced symptoms like eczema and psoriasis.

DEEP CONDITIONER
Coconut oil is a great, inexpensive way to deep-condition your hair and scalp, making your hair healthy, glossy and smooth. Simply place a few tablespoons of coconut oil in the microwave until it becomes a liquid, massage it into your hair, then leave it alone for at least an hour or two. Because coconut oil adds moisture to dry hair while still being color-safe, using it as a deep conditioner is particularly effective for color-created hair.

TREAT DANDRUFF
For the same reasons, coconut oil is also a viable solution for dandruff. It soothes dry and irritated scalps while killing any bacteria or fungi that might be causing the dandruff.

MAKEUP REMOVER
If you have sensitive or dry skin, coconut oil is the perfect alternative to your drugstore makeup remover. It gently (yet effectively) removes all types of makeup—even waterproof mascara!

LIP HYDRATION
Unless you want to walk around during the day with slick, glossy lips, this is more of an overnight option. Applying a layer of coconut oil to your lips before bed is a great way to keep them from cracking. This is incredibly helpful during the cold winter months, when your lips are more susceptible to becoming chapped.

SOOTHE YOUR PUPPY’S PAWS
Through walking on hot pavement, hiking and other daily activities, the skin on your puppy’s paws can become cracked. Rubbing a little coconut oil on them before bed helps soothe and heal your furry friend’s paws! Coconut oil has been proven safe for dogs, but (just to be sure) check with your vet first.

Happy Holidays!
By Prevent Blindness Wisconsin

Prevent Blindness Wisconsin is excited to introduce our 2018 Preschool Ambassador, Lizzy. In March 2018, volunteer vision screeners from Prevent Blindness Wisconsin provided a free vision screening at Lizzy’s K-4 program in Whitefish Bay. Lizzy’s parents were surprised to learn that their daughter did not pass her vision screening, saying, “Lizzy never showed signs of a vision problem and never mentioned anything, so when we got the brochure from Lizzy’s teacher saying that she did not pass the screening, we thought that there must have been a mistake.”

Nevertheless, Lizzy’s mom promptly took her to an eye doctor for a complete eye exam. At her appointment, Lizzy was diagnosed with astigmatism and hyperopia (farsightedness) in both eyes as well as amblyopia (lazy eye) in her right eye. Without early detection from Prevent Blindness Wisconsin volunteers, Lizzy’s vision problems may have gone undetected, untreated, and could have resulted in permanent vision loss. Lizzy’s parents are thankful for the work done by Prevent Blindness Wisconsin, saying, “We are incredibly grateful to Prevent Blindness Wisconsin for catching this and would 100% recommend a children’s vision screening to friends and family with children. We are so thankful that Prevent Blindness Wisconsin came to Lizzy’s school!”

The Whitefish Bay Civic Foundation is grateful for the financial support of so many Whitefish Bay businesses, individuals and families in 2018. Without your generosity the Bay would be less green, there would be no ice cream at the ice cream socials, the 4th of July would be less bright, the Sounds of Summer would go quiet and the pumpkins would dim.

To the endless list of volunteers who step up time after time to pick up trash, run carnival games, serve beer and help to put smiles on the faces of kids and pumpkins alike, thank you! It takes a small army to ensure that everything runs smoothly at each event and we are lucky to have so many community members willing to help.

Without the support, hard work, patience, enthusiasm and dedication of the Whitefish Bay DPW we would be in dire straits. They happily set up and tear down tents, signs, stages, tables, freezers and so much more. They are the best of the best and we appreciate everything they do!

Being a Civic Foundation board member is a big commitment and goes beyond planning great parties several times a year. It takes a person with a passion for our community and a willingness to dedicate time and energy to initiatives that help make Whitefish Bay a wonderful place to live. Beyond the many events we all enjoy, Civic Foundation board members work to evaluate and award scholarships to civic minded students going off to college, support community improvements and provide financial support and coordination for new community initiatives. So, to our current board members who are wrapping up their term at the end of this year, we salute you. You leave behind very large shoes that we will work hard to fill.

The list of thank yous could go on and on. Apologies to anyone we missed, please know we appreciate you more than a couple paragraphs in a magazine can express. If your new year’s resolution is to get more involved in your community 2019, please visit wfbcivicfoundation.org to learn more about the Whitefish Bay Civic Foundation, our mission and the various ways you can help.

Happy Holidays to all! See you in 2019!
By Tom Fehring and Jeff Aikin

It is holiday gift-giving time, and the best gift you can give to a Whitefish Bay resident this season is Historic Whitefish Bay: A Celebration of Architecture and Character. The 240-page book is available at Milwaukee booksellers and at Winkie’s, Fitzgerald’s, Village Ace, and other fine neighborhood stores. You can also buy it at the Whitefish Bay Library at a 20% discount. Celebrating the 125th anniversary of the Village’s incorporation in 1892, Historic Whitefish Bay takes readers through the Bay’s 182-year history from when the first settler arrived in 1835, telling the Village’s story through the historic homes in our community. But this book goes beyond architecture and tells the tales of the residents, architects, and institutions that make Whitefish Bay special. Not only will you learn about the business titans and their grand homes; Historic Whitefish Bay is rich in scandals — the beer baron’s daughter whose elopement was a national sensation, the Village President who absconded with $20,000 and was never seen again, Capt. Frederick Pabst’s niece who disclosed her mother’s sex scandal, the time Paul’s basted a speech as a speaker, the high school cheerleader who spent 10 years on the FBI’s Most Wanted List, and more — the kind of yarns that make a book fun to read.

With more than 120 photos, maps, and images, Historic Whitefish Bay also describes the 12 residential historic districts eligible for the National Register of Historic Places whose homeowners could qualify for 25% income tax credits. Each individual property in the districts — nearly 2,000 — is identified, and hundreds more outside the districts, many eligible for the National Registry, are discussed.
